CASE STUDY: The Wizarding World of Harry Potter, Universal Resort Orlando / 20 Acres

We were retained to write the concept scripts for attractions and live shows in this “theme park within a theme park.” We collaborated on writing the script for the main ride, Harry Potter and the Forbidden Journey.

Serving as visual effects producer and VFX supervisors for Harry Potter and the Forbidden Journey, we used our proprietary technology to film the motion control media with cast and crew of the Harry Potter films on the sets at Warner Brothers Studios near London.

We supervised the delivery of all of the digital content and assets for the project.

CASE STUDY: Action! An Adventure in MovieMaking, Chicago Museum of Science and Industry / 20,000 square feet

We developed this traveling exhibit based on the technology and creativity of filmmaking.

Working with moviemakers, we document the key skills required to make a major motion picture. From that, we developed an exhibit that empowered visitors to take on those roles to make a film.

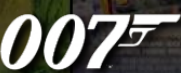

The culmination of this exhibit is in soundstage where visitors can become cast members or crew members and shoot their own film on Hollywood sets, see the final film and email it to their friends right from the museum.

One of the few museum exhibits that manages to be both educational and hands on engaging where the visitors can walk away with something they made themselves.
